LEGENDS AT LAS MORAS

MEDIA ADVISORY

Smithsonian Exhibition Coming to Historic Fort Clark in Brackettville

WHAT:
The Smithsonian's Spark! Places of Innovation traveling exhibition is coming to historic Fort Clark in Brackettville, Texas, as the centerpiece of Legends at Las Moras, a six-week celebration of Southwest Texas history, culture, art, nature, military heritage, film, music and innovation.

WHEN:
Spark! Places of Innovation
Nov. 21, 2026–Jan. 3, 2027
Legends at Las Moras programming
Nov. 21, 2026–Jan. 3, 2027

WHERE:
Dickman Hall, Fort Clark Springs, Brackettville, Texas

WHY IT MATTERS:
The Smithsonian's Museum on Main Street program brings Smithsonian exhibitions and resources directly to small and rural communities. Fort Clark's showing will be paired with extensive locally developed exhibits and programming connecting the national theme of innovation with the people and stories of Southwest Texas.

VISUAL/INTERVIEW OPPORTUNITIES:
• Historic Fort Clark architecture and grounds
• Las Moras Springs
• Smithsonian exhibition installation and opening
• Historic photographs and artifacts
• Student historical artwork
• Artists and demonstrations
• Military-history programming
• Local historians and storytellers
• Film preservation and oral-history projects
• Community volunteers preparing historic spaces for the exhibition

Advance visits and interviews can be arranged.
